

A Final Victory

On November 11, 1918, World War I came to an end.

To commemorate and honor the service of the men and women who served, each Allied

country

issued a

victory

medal. The

World War I

U.S. Victory

Medal was designed by

James Earle

Fraser. The

front of the

bronze medal

features a winged Victory holding a shield and sword. On the reverse are the words "The Great War For Civilization" along with a list of the WW1 Allied countries.
